

Dr. Olga Alexakos was born and raised in Greece. Upon her graduation from Senior High School, Olga continued her studies in New York, where she continuously resides since.

Olga holds a Ph.D. and MA in Economics from the New School of Social Research, Graduate Faculty and a BA in Psychology from Queens College, City University of NY.

Olga is a real estate broker in Manhattan since 1993 currently affiliated with Sotheby's International Realty as Associate Broker, Senior Global Real Estate Advisor.

She is the Founder and President of the New York based, non-profit organization, The Association of Greek American Professional Women (A.G.A.P.W.).

Olga has been honored with a Proclamation by the New York State Senate, a Citation by the New York State Assembly, a Citation by the City Council and a Citation of Honor by the Office of the President Borough of Queens, City of New York. "Honoring Olga for Outstanding Service to Her Community and for representing the highest ideals of her heritage."